Welcome to the world of digital signage....

In the world of advertising, grabbing customer attention and making an immediate impact is critical to achieving success. Digital signage has long held the promise of providing the ultimate marriage of flexibility, dynamic messaging, with a high impact medium. However, the ROI for digital signage products has remained small due to high acquisition costs, complex implementations, and limited usability and management. Until now...

"No PC, no media player, no more!"

The SP Series of digital signage products is the world's first fully integrated, high definition, networked, digital signage system.

Combined with the online SignPassage content management and delivery system, companies can easily deploy a compact, lightweight, all-in-one advertising system at a fraction of the cost of traditional displays.

The SP Series will open up an entirely new range of advertising and informational display opportunities for sign companies.

Join Computaleta and embrace the emergence of the digital revolution!
